The new design idea has been brought up from the Cadillac ATS-V program (unveiled in 2013), and was officially announced at the Los Angeles Auto Show on January 14, 2014. The next-generation Cadillac ATS-V is a rear-wheel drive performance sedan which draws its design from both ATS and CTS-V. Avantgarde styling and structure elements are adopted in the vehicle. Its automotive appearance is based on ATS base platform. The ATS-V also comes with V-series engine. The exterior design concept is shown in the above-mentioned official media release. Frontal view of the new model is as follows: a curved-topped grille, dynamic headlamps and round-lens grille mesh are carried over to the 2015 ATS-V. The driver and passenger are both provided with a curved roofline. The ground clearance is enhanced by 570a42141b
